All Other Forms of Tobacco Shows Drop Compared With 1931.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP)—A drop of 1,908,330,026 in the number of cigarettes consumed in April of this year as compared with April of last year was shown today in statistics issued by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The bureau said that last month tax was paid on 7,562,290,327 cigarettes while in the same month a year ago tax was paid on 9,470,621,253. At the same time other forms of tobacco showed decreases, with cigars dropping from 450,951,900 in April, 1931, to 340,933,161 last month and manufactured tobacco from 27,381,757 pounds a year ago to 24,813,725.

For the fiscal year starting last July 1 the bureau found that taxes of all sorts had declined $14,770,100 in the ten months. Income taxes accounted for the major portion of the drop, decreasing $663,142,573 to a total of $873,930,858. Tobacco taxes as a whole decreased $36,024,487. The decline in cigarette tax was the chief item in this falling off, amounting to $33,250,230.

Playing cards also produced less revenue in the ten months than a year ago, returning $4,027,532, a drop of $210,905. In April the tax was paid on 3,423,120 packs as compared with 4,390,229 in April, 1931. The only items in the revenue-producing list that showed increases were minor ones.

BANK HAS UNIQUE TEXTILE DISPLAY

More than 100 products from 14 Georgia counties, including everything from clothes to letter heads, bedding and fire hose, are on display at the Citizens & Southern National bank as part of a nation-wide and local celebration of National Cotton Week. The products of scores of Georgia manufacturers are included in this display, one of the most elaborate private displays of its kind ever shown here.

Each exhibit appears on a separate board, and is designed to show the various stages from raw cotton to the finished product. These range from such heavy products as fire hose to shirts and thread. Cotton now employs 942 major uses, and 12,000,000 people are helped by it in one way or another, the Cotton Textile Institute, one of the exhibitors, which is devoted to research, points out.

CASHIER RELEASED BY BANK ROBBERS

BINFORD, N. D., May 19.—(AP)—Several rolls of nickels, given him for use as "car fare back home," were held as souvenirs today by Chester Doolittle, banker of Ipswich, S. D., released near here after being kidnapped by four robbers.

Doolittle, cashier at the Bank of Ipswich, 175 miles south of here, was taken along for "protection" by the robbers after they had shot and wounded H. Plin Beebe, president of the bank, and escaped with $4,500 cash and $17,000 in registered bonds.

Vet Bureau Counsel Resigns Under Fire

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP)—Representative McSwain, democrat, South Carolina, announced on the house floor today he had been notified that Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, had accepted the resignation of William Wolff Smith, general counsel of the veterans' bureau.

Smith's resignation was demanded by the house military affairs committee which McSwain heads in a resolution approved yesterday.

He had been criticized by Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, for drawing $9,000 a year as salary from the veterans' bureau and $187.50 a month disability allowance because of World War service.

Neely Silences Long With Bon Mot on Gas

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP)—For all his versatility, Senator Huey P. Long was caught off base last night by Senator Neely, of West Virginia.

After repeatedly taking command of the tax bill debate, leading it around to the relative climatic conditions of California and Louisiana, the history of Texas and the frightful state of the paving outside the capitol, Long was tempted by Neely into making a comparison of the gas production of his state and West Virginia.

"Mr. President," said Neely, turning a beaming smile to Vice President Curtis, "West Virginia's gas is under control. That's the only difference."

When the guffaws and gavel-banging ceased, Long changed the subject.

EASY COOKING FOR HOUSE-CLEANING WEEK.
Although the old-fashioned house-cleaning week, with all its upsetting conditions, is pretty well a thing of the past, still there is much to be done even when the house is well cleaned every week.

For one thing, the winter bedding and heavy winter coats and underwear have to be put carefully away in mothproof containers. This usually necessitates cleaning out the chests and closets, which is more of a job than most people think.

For another thing, it is not a bad idea to go over the carpets and upholstered furniture. This may be done at home with the help of some of the easy-cleaning preparations on the market.

The rugs may be cleaned right on the floor, a heavy piece of the art gum used by decorators will help to remove the spots around pictures and other places on the walls revealed by changing of furniture.

There never was a woman born who didn't want to move things around periodically. This is such a well-defined characteristic that even a movie has been written about it, which tells all about the sad story of the husband who came home late at night and fell down hard on the floor when he thought he was reclining in the usual bed. There is no necessity for making the whole family uncomfortable in this process, but a few changes now and then help relieve the humdrum experiences of home-making.

Let the children help. Usually the children are at home the first week in May, the usual house-cleaning week, which is a great help. The youngsters may be highly entertained by a well-planned series of cleaning and changing. Each child may clean the woodwork in his own room, for instance, boys and girls alike. Every one of them will love to work at art gum back and forth over the walls.

This week is also a good time to take stock of the cleaning utensils available. Repairs may be made, new closets installed for brooms, vacuum

The meat loaf may be made at home from ground meat, minced onion and parsley, bread crumbs and seasonings, and baked in a bread pan, well greased; or it may be purchased at the store already baked, and served cold or reheated. Bake the apples and potatoes at the same time. Drain the can of string beans, use the juice and some added milk with which to cream them. Season them well.

Enough white sauce may be made at one time to cream the beans and the creamed dried beef the next day. Potatoes may be fried raw, cutting them in thin slices, placing in well greased frying pan, and cooking them slowly with sufficient milk to just cover them. Season well with salt and pepper. Purchase both the ice cream and the cake.

The pork chops may be baked right on top of the dish of scalloped potatoes, if desired. Cole slaw is easily and quickly made early in the morning and kept in refrigerator till evening. Make the jelly at the same time, so that it will be hardened.

The canned roast beef needs only heating in the can to make it ready to serve. Diced potatoes may also be bought in the can, ready to heat in the liquor, which is then drained off and potatoes well seasoned. The canned spinach may be heated, then seasoned with chopped hard-cooked eggs, a little lemon juice and lots of butter and salt. Purchase the apple pie.

To fry bacon properly, put the slices in cold frying pan, heat them slowly, turning often. This prevents scorching of the fat, cooks the bacon nicely, and prevents shrinkage.

Cabbage and pineapple salad is made by using one-third as much pineapple (shredded canned) by measure as of shredded cabbage, moistening with mayonnaise which has been diluted with the pineapple juice. Serve the plum pudding hot, with hard sauce.

Members of bar associations in the state are being invited to become associate members of the special Georgia committee of the Voluntary Committee of Lawyers, Inc., an organization formed three years ago for the purpose of securing spoken sentiments of the bar concerning national prohibition.

F. S. Mackall, of Savannah, is acting secretary of the Georgia division and several Atlanta lawyers are on the special committee.

Explaining the purpose of the committee, Estes Doremus, of Atlanta, a member of the committee, said the organization is non-political and that it is national in scope with a budget of only $12,000 a year, the money contributed by lawyers only.

"The organization intends to show," said Mr. Doremus, "that 12 years of trial has demonstrated that the prohibition amendment is not workable, being summary legislation on a subject where no moral issue is involved."

The special Georgia committee includes the following lawyers: Samuel B. Adams, Clifford L. Anderson, Charles J. Bloch, A. S. Bradley, George T. Cann, T. M. Cunningham, Joseph B. Cumming, Thomas F. Green, E. Ormonde Hunter, F. S. Mackall, Daniel MacDougald, J. R. Pottle, Alex W. Smith Jr., H. A. Wilkinson and Bruce Woodruff.

Cards are to be sent each member of the Georgia bar and upon its return properly signed the lawyer automatically becomes an associate member which involves no financial obligation, the committee said, adding that no funds be solicited.

At 10 o'clock Monday morning athletic diplomas, medals and monograms will be delivered, while at 4 o'clock this afternoon the senior class day exercises will be held, followed by the annual oratorical contest at 8 o'clock Monday night. Alumni will hold their annual meeting at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, followed by drill exercises at 3 o'clock and the senior-alumni banquet at 7 o'clock.

Wednesday will bring the event to a close with the graduation exercises at 10 o'clock with Oscar Emerson Ham, of Bowdon, will give the valedictory address. Dr. Spright Dowell, president of Mercer University, will deliver the commencement address.

Massie Hopes Laffoon Will Give Him Pardon

CHICAGO, May 19.—(AP)—Expressing the hope Governor Ruby Laffoon, of Kentucky, would grant him a pardon, Lieutenant Thomas Massie today by air from California, bound for the home of the naval officer's mother in Winchester, Ky.

The Hawaiian "honor slayer" and his wife rode all night from Salt Lake City. Both were tired and sleepy, and sped away from the airport to a Loop hotel.

"We'll probably go down home tomorrow," the lieutenant said.

Asked if he would seek a pardon from Governor Laffoon, restoring his civil rights in his native state, Lieutenant Massie said:

"I'm not asking anything from anybody—but I sure do hope he gives me one."

Rev. Charles Francis Potter, of New York, told the committee "the bird of war is not the eagle, but the stork." He said Japan's overpopulation was the direct cause of her aggressive advances in the mainland of Asia.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, of New York, advised the committee that women "are not merely for the purpose of multiplying the human race, but for improving it."

MEASURE IS BACKED BY ATLANTA DOCTOR

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP)

Dr. W. F. Shallenberger, of Atlanta, was an important witness called by proponents of a birth-control measure at a hearing before the house committee today.

Dr. Shallenberger, a gynecologist, told the committee 100,000 abortions were performed annually in this country, causing the death of 15,000 women.

He urged legalizing contraceptive information and protecting women from this "menace."

"It removes wholesome restraint and gives reign to profligacy," he declared.

From Dr. John A. Ryan, of the national Catholic welfare conference, came the warning that passage of the measure would only accelerate the declining birth rate. He said the bill "goes beyond the reasonable limit" of liberty of expression.

Gray said that the $92,000 had been distributed in addition to Tully, as follows:

Eddie Dowling, the actor, $19,000.

Dr. Ash (otherwise unidentified), $10,000.

I. E. Lambert, $15,000.

A. McConchie, $20,000.

F. J. Thiel, member of the Meehan firm, $10,000.

K. Wolf, $10,000.

A. Cotter, another employee of the firm, $5,000.

J. McNamee, $2,000.

Gray asked McConchie why Thiel, a member of the firm, was paid $10,000, but the witness replied:

"The only person who could tell me is Mr. Meehan, and as you know he is a very sick man. He called for Europe the other night."

"When did he call?" Gray asked.

"Last night," McConchie replied, amid laughter from members of the committee.

The witness said three of the leading physicians in New York had advised Meehan to go abroad.

"Were these doctors members of the firm?" Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, asked. Before the witness could reply Gray said he had seen Meehan too and he was not well then, but he had since tried to serve a subpoena on him, and did not know before that he was sailing for Europe.

The pool, Gray said, operated from March 12 to 20, 1929. The exact profits to participants was $4,924,078, exclusive of the $92,000 paid to non-participants.

He placed in the record the circular advertising the syndicate sent out by Meehan & Co. saying it would be limited to operations of 1,000,000 shares on the long or short side of the market.

"During the seven days," Gray said, "they bought 1,493,400 shares for which they paid $141,424,328."

Gray gave the detailed operations for each day, showing the pool managers were buying and selling every day the pool was in existence.

The stock started at 77 3/4 on March 5, rose to 91 3/4 on March 12, went up to 109 1/4 on March 16, and then dropped back to 94 on March 20.

The investigating committee also uncovered the first of the much publicized "bear raids" reports of which inspired it to start the inquiry into the market operations more than a month ago.

Further, the committee learned that a big pool in General Asphalt lost money when the market crashed in 1929, despite that members of the company's board of directors participated and started paying dividends after the crash was formed.

Half a dozen witnesses were paraded before the committee but they only supplemented the evidence presented by Gray.

INUKAI FUNERAL HELD:

CABINET NEAR FORMATION

TOKYO, May 19.—(AP)—Political leaders here today held a cabinet for a while today to eulogize the late Premier Suoyoshi Inukai, victim of assassins, at a simple Buddhist funeral.

Then, closely guarded, Prince Saloni, last of the elder statesmen, arrived from his Okitsu villa and began a series of conferences at his home here preparatory to advising Emperor Hirohito on the selection of a new premier.

The army, which has demanded tax relief for farmers and other economic reforms in a non-partisan program, was expected to accept a cabinet made up chiefly of seiyukai party members, but containing some others.

General Sadao Araki, nationalist leader, would again be minister of war, newspaper commentators predicted.

Five hundred of Japan's leading public men attended the late premier's funeral, which was private. It was conducted in the residence, where he was not down last Sunday by a group of young cadets and naval ensigns.

Gray asked McConchie why Thiel, a member of the firm, was paid $10,000, but the witness replied:

"The only person who could tell me is Mr. Meehan, and as you know he is a very sick man. He called for Europe the other night."

COVETED AWARD WON
BY ATLANTA YOUTH

A graduate scholarship in mechanical engineering at the Harvard Engineering school has been awarded to Augustus Charles Keiser Jr., 1901 Briarcliff place, N. E., honor student of the mechanical engineering department at Georgia Tech.

He will be penalized by a tariff in the cost of fuel oil to run their industries. He admitted his purpose, Baltimore, in his home state, would be heavily hit.

The possibility of a filibustering jam is intensified by the threat of

Gray asked McConchie why Thiel, a member of the firm, was paid $10,000, but the witness replied:

"The only person who could tell me is Mr. Meehan, and as you know he is a very sick man. He called for Europe the other night."

"When did he call?" Gray asked.

"Last night," McConchie replied, amid laughter from members of the committee.

The witness said three of the leading physicians in New York had advised Meehan to go abroad.

"Were these doctors members of the firm?" Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, asked. Before the witness could reply Gray said he had seen Meehan too and he was not well then, but he had since tried to serve a subpoena on him, and did not know before that he was sailing for Europe.

The pool, Gray said, operated from March 12 to 20, 1929. The exact profits to participants was $4,924,078, exclusive of the $92,000 paid to non-participants.

He placed in the record the circular advertising the syndicate sent out by Meehan & Co. saying it would be limited to operations of 1,000,000 shares on the long or short side of the market.

"During the seven days," Gray said, "they bought 1,493,400 shares for which they paid $141,424,328."

Gray gave the detailed operations for each day, showing the pool managers were buying and selling every day the pool was in existence.

The stock started at 77 3/4 on March 5, rose to 91 3/4 on March 12, went up to 109 1/4 on March 16, and then dropped back to 94 on March 20.

The investigating committee also uncovered the first of the much publicized "bear raids" reports of which inspired it to start the inquiry into the market operations more than a month ago.

Further, the committee learned that a big pool in General Asphalt lost money when the market crashed in 1929, despite that members of the company's board of directors participated and started paying dividends after the crash was formed.

Half a dozen witnesses were paraded before the committee but they only supplemented the evidence presented by Gray.

Scores Testify To Remarkable Powers Of Yeast, Iron, Copper

As each new test further demonstrates the remarkable powers of Thor's Vitamin Compound, the new vitamins, iron and copper treatment, public demand for it continues to grow. Every day scores of new reports of its remarkable benefits are heard. Mrs. K. W. Spratlin, wife of a well-known Georgia Power Company man, residing at 304 Augusta avenue, said:

"I wish everyone in Atlanta knew what this new treatment did for me. I was in deplorable health from stomach trouble, acidosis, and rheumatism. Every bite I ate turned as sour as vinegar and I was unable for hours after every meal from indigestion. My blood pressure was low, I was too nervous to sleep soundly, and I was so thin and weak I could not do my housework half the time. "Thor's Vitamin Compound overcame this terrible condition so quickly it was astonishing. I now eat everything without a particle of indigestion, my nerves are steady, I sleep like a healthy child, and the rheumatic pains are entirely gone. I feel so much better and stronger I am like a different woman. I am glad to tell everybody that this new vitamin, iron, and copper treatment is grand."

Mrs. Spratlin's statement is typical of scores of others heard every day. Thor's Vitamin Compound is sold by all druggists for fifty cents. To be sure you get the genuine vitamins, iron, and copper treatment insist on it by name. Thor's Vitamin Compound.—(adv.)

Textile Leaders Will Open Annual Session Here Today

What the well dressed man will wear, in cotton, was demonstrated for the camera of Bill Mason, Constitution staff photographer, Thursday night by Cason J. Callaway (left), president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, and George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, of New York, at the Baltimore hotel on the eve of the convention of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association. Both men are attired in cotton suits.

American cotton and foreign substitutes will be discussed by leading textile men of the nation in the 30th annual convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association today and Saturday at the Baltimore hotel, with a program co-incident with observance of National Cotton Week.

The first session will be held at 10 o'clock this morning. Officers of the association are Cason J. Callaway, president; B. B. Gossett, of Charlotte, N. C., vice president; Donald Comer, of Birmingham, Ala., second vice president, and W. M. McLaure, of Charlotte, N. C., secretary.

Mr. Sloan, in a statement on National Cotton Week, said that "it is significant of the growing acceptance of cotton fabrics for interior decoration that several hundred yards of white cotton fabrics have been purchased for new summer curtains at the White House in Washington. This sheer material of a new quality of American manufacture will replace curtains which, through use over a period of years, have become unserviceable. The new cotton curtains were selected to give an atmosphere of summer freshness to the executive mansion."

The Rev. L. R. Christie, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, will offer the invocation after President Callaway calls the convention to order this morning. Stuart W. Cramer, president of Cramerton Mills, N. C., and a past president of the association, will respond to Mayor Key's welcome. President Callaway will give his address, and Dr. Melvin T. Copeland, president of the Harvard School of Business, will speak on marketing and distribution.

The second session will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. R. E. Henry, president of Duncan Mills, Greenville, S. C., will lead a round-table discussion on competition of foreign cotton.

Forced Vote Sought On Cash Bonus Issue

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(P)—A petition to force a vote on the $2,000,000 cash bonus issue was filed in the house today and before adjournment bore 53 of the required 145 signatures.

Representative Patman, democrat, Texas, resorted to the drastic discharge procedure without awaiting a decision from the rules committee on his appeal from the adverse vote of the ways and means committee.

Just before adjournment, Patman informed the house that a petition on his new-money plan was on the clerk's desk. Off the floor he predicted the necessary 145 signatures will be obtained within three days.

June 13 is the first day a vote on the Patman petition would be in order. Patman conceded the chances for the vote depended upon the length of the session.

MISSISSIPPI SENATE AND HOUSE ADJOURN

JACKSON, Miss., May 19.—(P)—Mississippi's general assembly adjourned after whitening the biennial budget to slightly more than $20,000,000, a reduction of nearly $9,000,000 as compared to the 1930-31 budget.

Sweeping reductions in the salaries of state department, institutional and agency heads and their employees were made, along with material slashes in the compensation of district and county officials.

Appropriations were right and left to conform with anticipated revenues. Practically every state department and institution will be forced to operate on a reduced appropriation during the biennium ranging from 15 to 60 per cent.

New taxes were voted to meet rapidly shrinking revenues and to refund a deficit of approximately $13,000,000, a handover from the last administration.

Chief among the new revenue producers voted by the legislature, some of which still await executive approval, is the 2 per cent general sales tax, estimated to yield approximately $2,000,000 annually.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting. Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover a real internal pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,600 patients with the marvelous record of cures in 980 cases, and then decided every pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonard's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Jacobs' Drug Store invites every pile sufferer to try a bottle of HEM-ROID and guarantee to refund the purchase price if they do not end piles in 30 days.—(adv.)

Accused English Vicar Called 'Troublesome Busybody' by Counsel

LONDON, May 19.—(P)—The Rev. H. F. Davidson, 62-year-old defendant in a church trial, was described by his counsel today as "a troublesome busybody" who habitually kissed women, but without impropriety. Barbara Harris, one of the principal witnesses for the prosecution in the minister's trial on a charge of immorality, is the only one of "a legion of girls" he has befriended who has "turned and bit the hand that fed her." R. F. Levy, the clergyman's counsel, told a consistory court.

"He kisses his landlady," he kisses his landlady's daughter, he kisses the maid, he kisses all sorts of people," Mr. Levy said of Mr. Davidson, who formerly was vicar of Stiffkey (pronounced Stewkey).

"But it is not in a sensual way. It's a kiss on the cheek or the forehead." His attorney said it was not unusual for the clergyman to give his bed to girls whom he had found in difficulties and himself walk the streets all night.

His associations with hundreds of young women were always laudable and not improper, his counsel said. The attorney protested against what he said was an atmosphere of prejudice created by the prosecution out of the testimony of Miss Harris, from whom he said had come the only evidence of immorality.

The charges against Mr. Davidson were made by the bishop of Norwich.

$500 Marriage License Urged To Cure U. S. Ills

ST. PAUL, May 19.—(P)—A suggestion that a charge of $500 for each marriage license issued may help solve the tax problem and may be divorce and other marital difficulties, was made yesterday to the St. Paul Citizens Tax Relief Association by Mrs. Bertha Ortel.

"A young fellow gets an automobile on instalments," said Mrs. Ortel. "Then he hunts up a girl, and before you know it he is married. Then there are children and the poor taxpayers have to dig up money to school them and often to support them."

"Now if a fellow had to have $500 to get married he wouldn't be in such a hurry. Another thing, there wouldn't be so many divorces."

CITADEL CADET HELD IN ROBBERY TRIO

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 19.—(P)—Warrants charging Francis H. Thompson, a student of The Citadel and a son of a Richland county deputy sheriff, and two other men with house-breaking and larceny and safe-breaking were sworn out today.

Thompson and Claude Powell and Fred Poole were charged with robbing the Richland Supply Company, 25 miles from Columbia, on March 28 of $500 in cash and $275 in checks. E. Wilson, a night watchman, was handcuffed to a tree in a nearby cemetery during the robbery.

DAVIS WILL STAY IN LEGISLATURE

Ways and Means Chairman Will Not Run for Attorney-General.

A definite announcement in Atlanta Thursday by Ernest M. Davis, chairman of the house ways and means committee and one of the leaders of the general assembly, that he would not be a candidate for attorney-general narrowed this race between State Senator W. H. Duckworth, of Cairo, and Representative Gus Huddleston, of Greenville.

Davis, who was regarded as one of the best constitutional lawyers in the general assembly, had been urged by a great many people over the state to make the race to succeed Lawrence S. Camp, temporarily appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Attorney-General Nipper. Camp has announced he would ask for the nomination.

His constituents in Mitchell county, whom he has represented in the legislature since 1927, Davis said, had brought such pressure to bear that he found it necessary to forego any aspiration for state honors and continue to serve as a member of the assembly.

Davis' decision not to make the race for attorney-general shared interest with an announcement made at Alley by State Senator Hugh Peterson that he would enter the primary as a candidate for congress against Representative Homer C. Parker.

Peterson was the senator from the 15th district in the last session and before that a member of the house, where, between the 1931 special and regular sessions, he served as a member of the committee which drafted the reorganization law. He is editor of the Montgomery County Monitor, published at Mt. Vernon, and is a brother-in-law of Governor Russell.

Another legislative announcement made here Thursday was that B. S. Miller, of Columbus, would make the race for the legislature from Muscogee county this year. Miller, well known in educational and political circles, is a former member of the senate and a farmer with large holdings.

Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, continued his preliminary campaigning with a commencement speech at the Armuchee school near Rome Thursday night. Talmadge does not expect to begin his speaking campaign proper until some time in July.

John B. Wilson, secretary of state, and William B. Harrison, comptroller general, filed as candidates to succeed themselves.

NAZI CHIEF DEMANDS PRUSSIAN ECONOMY

BERLIN, May 19.—(P)—Sweeping salary cuts and the wholesale dismissal of officials considered non-essential were demanded today by Wilhelm Kube, national socialist floor leader in the new Prussian diet which will convene May 24.

The cuts and the dismissals will be the first objectives in the Hitlerite effort to bring about fundamental changes in Prussia, Herr Kube declared.

The Nazis, he said, will demand the appointment of an investigating committee to look into what he called the miscarriage of justice in Prussia, especially in reference to trials of various members of Adolf Hitler's party.

Macy's bought 34 tons of paper which it had made up into 37,000 boxes of writing paper and 74,000 packages of envelopes. More than a third of it was all rag, the finest paper made. The rest had a large rag content and is superior paper, too. Macy's had it boxed, and sold the various styles and colors in two groups.

"It Plays to Advertisers" was put on to point a moral, and incidentally to poke fun at the foibles of certain notables and certain practices in the retail store and advertising fields in Atlanta. But it was much more than that. It was the best amateur comedy in its lines and acting that this scribe ever saw, bar none. It appealed especially to those on the inside, who knew the persons and the incidents caricatured, but its characterizations and lines would stir laughter in those who know nothing of retail merchandizing or the preparation of store advertising.

This one-act play was staged at the spring membership meeting of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association at Rich's tea room Thursday night. In the cast were well known figures of the department store, the newspapers and the radio stations.

Stars in the Play.
Credit goes to Lloyd A. Wilhoit for his general supervision of the play, to say nothing of his admirable acting in the part of Phil Hoyt, and to Leonora Anderson Morgan, director. If one had to make one selection of the actors, Oscar Strauss Jr., who took the part of a general manager of a department store, would come first.

He was the Babbit-like creature who runs in on a distracted advertising staff with new ideas, and adds to the prevailing distraction with his "Well, is everybody happy? Don't work too hard. Keep to your routine." And puts the distracted workers on the spot.

Frances Hargis McCrory, the artist who is overworked, would be a close second in this selection, and the lady buyers were inimitable. The audience was kept in a roar of laughter from start to finish.

J. P. Allen, president of the association, presided. L. L. Austin, the secretary, made a report.

At the end of the performance Mr. Wilhoit made a talk which emphasized the message the play had already conveyed.

Wilhoit's Talk.
Advertising today is a "sick man," and if diagnosed the ailment would be found to be "hyper-exaggeration and violent misuse," Mr. Wilhoit, advertising manager of the Davison-Paxon Company, said.

Mr. Wilhoit did not attempt to place the blame for the existing conditions in advertising. The important thing, he said, "is for all to join in a sane constructive effort to cure advertising of the ill effects of such phrases as 'the greatest sale in our history,' 'the most sensational event in 500 years,' 'the finest,' 'the loveliest,' 'most mammoth' and 'world-beating.'"

Mr. Wilhoit said it was not reasonable to expect a series of sales to follow each other, each be "the greatest." In one paper, he said, he found 24 instances of this exaggeration in advertising copy. The burden of riding the store of merchandise is the store did not want at prices the public would not pay had been unreasonably put on the shoulders of advertising, Mr. Wilhoit said.

Must Regain Dignity.
Declaring that the person in charge of advertising should be given more discretion, and not subjected to outside pressure, Mr. Wilhoit said:

"If advertising is to get well and start pulling again, it must regain a dignity and sincerity it has long since lost. If it is to promote confidence, it must drop its superlatives and get back to the simple, honest truth. If it is to be good advertising again it must be rid of 'sheep in wolves' clothing—and advertising people who recognize their responsibility toward the sale of the goods advertised and who use as the measure of their success whether they are smart enough to make anything sell by any other inducement except price—such advertising people are the best people to do it."

The meeting, a well attended one, was in charge of a committee composed of Mr. Wilhoit, Mrs. A. C. Morgan, advertising manager of J. P. Allen & Co., and Oscar Strauss Jr., advertising manager of Rich's.

The principals in the play, which made a decided hit, were Louise Tennant, Mr. Wilhoit, Rosalind Williams, Frances Hargis McCrory, Adele Anderson and Bob Whitehead.

VOTE SEEN AS TEST OF KEY PROGRAM

Warren Declares Primary Is Test of Mayor's Policies on Finance.

Mayor James L. Key's economical program of administration of municipal affairs is on trial in Wednesday's primary, V. P. Warren, chairman of the citizens' committee which fought the futile effort to oust the mayor, said Thursday in issuing a new appeal to all registered voters to cast ballots in the election.

"Unless we are willing to lose all we gained for good government in defeating the recall effort, we must impress the importance of citizens casting their ballots in the primary," Warren said.

The statement was issued on the heels of an announcement by Dr. Samuel Green, chairman of the city democratic executive committee, that a meeting of the subcommittee will be held at 9 o'clock tonight at the city hall to discuss the advisability of seeking a referendum expression of voters in the primary on a proposal to revise administration of the Atlanta schools.

Dr. Green also has called a meeting of all election managers and clerks for 8 o'clock tonight at the city hall for the purpose of acquainting them with their duties. There will be nearly 100 in all, including members of the executive committee.

Dr. Green calls the election school and is for the purpose of ironing out any misunderstandings which might arise. He inaugurated the plan last year.

"The same selfish forces interested solely in their own political advancement and their own personal gain are still at work in Atlanta and are seeking to gain control of council," Warren warned. "It is up to the thinking people of Atlanta who believe that government is a business and that council is the directing head to administer that business in the interest of the taxpayer stockholders to visit the polls and cast their ballots."

"At no time in Atlanta's history has the need for concerted action of the every-day citizen been more apparent. If we do not seriously consider our government we cannot be sure that our interests are being properly protected."

"I wish to call on voters again to respond to the call of good, clean, efficient and honest government. Cast your ballot in the primary if you are a registered voter."

Dr. Green said that only those managers and clerks who attended the school tonight or who show a providential reason for non-attendance will be permitted to officiate. He said the reason for the school is to standardize methods in all polls and to remove any possibility of a mistake.

Interest in the primary was stimulated Thursday night by two ward meetings, one in the second ward at the Georgia Avenue school and another in the twelfth ward at the Kirkwood school.

Repeal of Prohibition Advocated by Pershing

NEW YORK, May 19.—(UP)—Easy money from violation of the prohibition law is financing more than a million criminals, General John J. Pershing said today in an article published by the American Magazine, in which the World War leader advocates repeal of prohibition.

To meet "the criminal army which is defying the government," Pershing recommended doing away with the prohibition laws, organization of local vigilance committees, and adoption of the European system of identification police cards for every resident of the United States.

KEY WILL PRESIDE AT RALLY OF 'WETS'

Mayor James L. Key Thursday accepted an invitation to preside over a meeting of opponents of the prohibition law next Wednesday night at the city auditorium. The meeting, which is being conducted under the auspices of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform with the assistance of the American Federation of Labor is to be addressed by Matthew Woll, A. F. of L. vice president, and other noted speakers.

The invitation to Mayor Key was extended by Mrs. William T. Healey, state chairman of the women's organization.

It was also announced Thursday that the meeting next week would be attended by a number of out-of-town labor and American Legion delegations, many of them coming from Tennessee, where the two organizations recently launched a concerted effort to crystallize sentiment against the dry law.

Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley, of New Orleans, also has been invited to attend the meeting as have the mayors of Chattanooga, Birmingham and other nearby cities.

The meeting program will include a flag-raising ceremony by the American Legion and a musical program by the Legion's drum and bugle corps and by the Atlanta Musicians' Union. M. L. Lefkowitz, of Washington, special representative of the A. F. of L. is assisting Mrs. Healey in preparing for the meeting.

MRS. SARAH MOORE DIES AT RESIDENCE

Mrs. Sarah M. Moore, 94-year-old pioneer, who is survived by 96 direct descendants, died early Thursday night at her residence at 681 Holderness street, after an illness of one year. Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. this afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with the Rev. W. H. Barton officiating. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

She was married twice, first to the late Rev. Patton Huckabee, well-known Georgia minister, and after his death, to the late James Andrew Moore. Surviving Mrs. Moore are three daughters, Mrs. T. J. Moore, of Miami, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. H. E. Curtis, of Denver, Col.; 35 grandchildren, 52 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

23 More Killed In Indian Rioting

BOMBAY, India, May 19.—(AP)—Twenty-three more persons were killed and 95 injured today in a continued communal rioting between Hindus and Moslems that brought the week's casualties to 122 dead and 1,043 wounded. Severe clashes occurred in the hill area north of the city, where 40,000 men and women were idle owing to the closing of the mills. Tense feeling continues in other riot areas, but wholesale arrests during the day tended to restore order. Today's trouble started when Hindu mill-workers attacked Moslem pedestrians. The police fired upon the rioters.

Told of Teacher's Story.

Dr. Condon was told of the interrogation of Mrs. Ford as he came from a mysterious visit to the United States military academy at West Point, N. Y.

"I have never even seen her," he said.

"Did you ever talk to her on the telephone?" he was asked.

The aged educator smiled, stuck out his tongue, and said:

"That's my answer."

Although state police said Dr. Condon's daughter had told them by telephone her father had been advised by his physician to rest for several days.

"RED" JOHNSON PAYS CALL AT NEWARK

NEWARK, N. J., May 19.—

(AP)—Henry "Red" Johnson, held for deportation after having been questioned at length early in the search for the Lindbergh baby, came to Newark police headquarters today. He was accompanied from Ellis Island by two men. For a half hour he was closeted with Police Chief Brea, who, after his departure termed the visit "purely a friendly one with no connection with the Lindbergh case."

"Jafse" made the unannounced trip to West Point during the afternoon.

Dr. Condon munched sandwiches and porridge over maps as he was driven upstate by "Al" Reich, former prize fighter. Two New York city detectives trailed him in another car.

Reich has been his bodyguard throughout the negotiations, which culminated when Dr. Condon threw $50,000 of Colonel Lindbergh's money over a cemetery wall to a man he accepted as one of the kidnaping gang.

Confer Over Maps.

When they arrived at the military academy Dr. Condon engaged in a whispered conversation with the two detectives. They appeared to be consulting the maps.

Then "Jafse" hailed a passing motorcycle with a side car, and he and one of the detectives rode in it to the home of Colonel R. G. Alexander, head of the academy's department of map-drawing, who is understood to have a large collection of maps of the eastern seaboard.

Earlier in the day, Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police head, said Dr. Condon had been "most cooperative with police" and had offered to come to Hopewell for questioning or go anywhere else with the investigators.

State police have indicated they will continue their questioning of him after that.

"As soon as Dr. Condon is rested, we will continue taking him around," Schwarzkopf said.

A conference was being arranged at Trenton to discuss whether any possible grounds for criminal procedure existed in Dean Dobson-Peacock's refusal to let Lindbergh supply $25,000 for ransom purposes.

Appeal for Money.

The clergyman flew to Hopewell March 28 to ask the colonel to deposit the money in a Norfolk bank.

His own explanation is that the $25,000 was to be deposited in the names of all three intermediaries (himself, Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burroughs, retired), and was not to be withdrawn until after the baby was returned, and then only on the signatures of all three.

Colonel Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, expressed disappointment when Dean Dobson-Peacock refused to come to Hopewell for questioning.

"Under these circumstances," he said, "it will not be possible to confront Mr. Curtis with Mr. Peacock, which at this time we are anxious to do."

He added there was no legal way the clergyman could be forced to make the trip.

But the dean's offer to undergo questioning in his home town made it appear likely an official explanation of what part he played in the bizarre hoax would be obtained.

Governor A. Harry Moore said he favored "sending someone to Norfolk to see what he has to say."

He indicated someone would be named by Schwarzkopf to make the trip.

Dean Gives Story.

In Norfolk it was learned Dean Dobson-Peacock had given detailed information to department of justice agents concerning a hurried trip he made to New York to see Lindbergh.

The clergyman has refused to discuss the matter.

A scathing denunciation of New Jersey state police and their methods was issued by Robert M. Hughes Jr., registrar of Dean Dobson-Peacock's church.

"It is high time some straight thinking should be set before the public concerning Colonel Schwarzkopf's gratuitous innuendoes about Dean Peacock's non-acceptance of his 'invitation' to go to Hopewell."

"It was an arrant impertinence for the New Jersey police to call the dean to come here for him to go there."

"No lawyer would advise him to go and no sane person would expect him to go."

"Nobody but the grand army of gossipers and scandal-mongers questions the course of Dean Peacock and Admiral Burroughs in this unfortunate drama."

"Bungling" Charged.

"As to Schwarzkopf and his cohorts, many who are well informed in police affairs hold the view that they had miserably bungled this whole business; that they are nothing more than traffic cops at best and not very good ones at that."

He said after a vestry meeting six prominent Norfolk lawyers were unanimous in the view Dean Dobson-Peacock should not go to Hopewell.

Police bulletins from the Lindbergh estate made it clear Curtis was under no suspicion of having had anything to do with the kidnaping itself or the collection of the $50,000 ransom paid by Dr. Condon in a New York city cemetery April 2.

"On April 2, Mr. Curtis was in the company of Lieutenant Richards and his actions are accounted for," Colonel Schwarzkopf said.

"There is nothing that would link him in any way with the actual kidnaping and the collection of the ransom money."

"At no time did Mr. Curtis see any of the actual ransom notes, nor the signature on them."

Lindbergh's Request.

Then he explained it was the request of Colonel Lindbergh for actual proof Curtis was in contact with the kidnapers that led to his asking the Virginia shipbuilder to bring some written message from those he was dealing with.

Apparently Curtis never produced any such evidence, although the colonel later went off with him to follow the phantom ships and fictitious gang Curtis had created.

Colonel Schwarzkopf disclosed he had asked Norfolk police to "protect" the shipbuilder's family, after Curtis had manifested concern about their safety. It was made clear, however, that no reports of threats against the family had been received.

A queer letter, which had received little attention until the Lindberghs' first-born was found a week ago, was made public by William Walter, Trenton police chief.

He received the unsigned missive ten days after the kidnaping. It came from Buffalo, N. Y., and purported to have been written by a member of the kidnap gang.

Text of Letter.

"Follow the Lindbergh telephone wire and you will find the baby and three fellers," it said.

The child's body was found more than two months later within 75 feet of telephone lines stretched along the ground to the Lindbergh estate.

The letter was signed "thank you" and did not bear the name of the sender.

"I got cold feet and the fellows know it," the man wrote. "I promised not to squeal and they gave me money and I'm going home."

"Maybe I won't get caught. We all thought we could make easy money. We got a place near Elizabeth, N. J., and one of the fellows who is pretty smart runs a wire to this place and listens to everything the Lindberghs say."

"When he hangs up the receiver he always says, 'I never knew I was so smart.'"

"I quit the fellows because they don't agree."

"The fellows are pretty nervous. If I didn't like the baby I would not write this, but if you want the baby and the fellows you must keep this secret."

"If you catch the baby and the fellows, will you let me go free?"

The printing of the letter was similar to that on a postcard mailed from Newark a day or two after the kidnaping.

Curtis' Spelling.

Colonel Schwarzkopf in one of his bulletins said:

"No significance is based on the fact that Curtis in his confession spells Colonel Lindbergh's name 'Lindbergh'."

He also said handwriting experts "all generally agree" that the notes to Dr. Condon were written by a man. This served to spike a published report that experts had agreed both the "Jafse" notes and the original ransom demand had been written by a woman.

Fire Calls.

The following alarms were reported by the fire department Thursday:

11:10 A. M.—333 Rockwell street, S. W. residence. Shorted electric wire. Small damage.

2:20 P. M.—Orange street, near Windsor. Electric wire on ground. No fire.

Underworld Leader Tells of by Mobs.

We went to scores of meetings like that.

"The agreement was always made that if anything went wrong none of us would come away alive."

"You see what it meant. One mob might have the mark on a man. He would be in hiding. We'd go to the other mob and get in touch with him. But we would never break confidence with anybody."

"I guess we talked to a hundred men like that who were hiding out for one reason or another. And all of them were taking their lives in their hands to come out of hiding."

"In one case there was a report a Detroit mob knew something. And what happened? Both here and in Chicago the mobs chartered planes and sent delegations to find out."

"There were sent out like that to dozens of towns, and that meant expense. You know how those fellows travel—always in squads of four."

"There was another case where one mob thought they could lay hands on the baby. They were jumpy about it and demanded that I give myself up as hostage to insure their protection."

"The Broadway folks were told to go to New York and I stayed with them 24 hours. In the end, after all the trouble, the thing petered out."

"Though all this work came to naught, Rosner explained he had been of some service to the Lindberghs anyway."

"They didn't have to deal with me," he said. "We handled all the chisels ourselves and cooled them. I guess we busted up a dozen attempts to chisel in and hoist the ransom."

He told how on one occasion a Broadway mob received word from a group posing as the kidnapers that they were ready to turn the baby over. The mob agreed to negotiate.

"There were three days of negotiating," Rosner recounted. "Finally the Broadway folks were told to go to a certain east side restaurant. Four of them went and waited nearly an hour."

"Then a note was handed in that there was a taxi outside. They climbed in. They didn't know where they were going. They were let out at a desert-

Ghoulish Food Seller To Be Barred by State

PRINCETON, N. J., May 19.—

(AP)—The hot dog stand established near the improvised grave of the murdered Lindbergh baby by an opportunist who saw a chance to enrich himself on the hunger of morbid sightseers is to be removed.

Dr. John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University, telephoned today to Governor A. Harry Moore and asked that the stand be taken away. Governor Moore promised swift action.

It was Dr. Hibben who protested soon after the baby was kidnaped against barnstormers who started an aerial back business over the Lindbergh home. That was stopped too.

"Have you got the money?" one of them asked.

"The Broadway fellows said they had it. They did have it. They always carried ransom with them on trips like that—the mob's money, not Lindbergh's. The colonel was never asked to put up any money."

"One of the Broadway mob said: 'We've got the money, now where's the baby?'"

"Then like a flash one of the mob flashed a revolver."

"Put 'em up," he said.

"It was intuition. I don't know how he knew."

"They shoved up their hands, all four of them. Then one of them said: 'Can we put them down if we tell the truth?'"

"Put 'em down, but it better be the truth," the Broadway fellows said.

"So they told the truth. They said they were on their own and busted. They thought they could make a grab and a getaway. The Broadway mob wanted to do them up right there as a sort of example."

"In the end, they decided to let them go, as they proved to be a bunch of punks who planned a stick-up."

Rosner said he was recommended to Colonel Lindbergh by "three different sources—a former cabinet member, a congressman from New York, and a very reputable law firm."

He said his help was sought because for more than ten years he had been an arbitrator of gang feuds.

"I am not a barnstormer," he said emphatically. "I'm a business man. I've been in the real estate business for years, but it's all gone to pieces during this case. They want me to make a grab and a getaway. The Broadway mob wanted to do them up right there as a sort of example."

He said he had made his contacts in Washington because of a number of delicate jobs for the government.

He went into the Lindbergh case, he explained, on condition he would not have to report to or work with police or official investigators.

CHURCH BACKS DEAN WHO AIDED CURTIS

BY FRANK E. TAYLOR.

Norfolk, Va., May 19.—(AP)—Friends, vestrymen of his church, rallied to the defense of the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock today as the minister continued the center of interest in the maelstrom of charges, denial and police inquiry which followed the confession of John Hughes Curtis that he faked his Lindbergh kidnaping "negotiations."

Robert M. Hughes Jr., registrar of Christ Episcopal church, who said he was speaking for himself and unofficially for the entry vestry, asserted in a formal statement that only "the grand army of gossipers and scandal-mongers" questioned the course pursued by Dean Dobson-Peacock and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burroughs, retired, as members of the trio of Norfolk "intermediaries."

Hughes characterized as "arrant impertinence" the request made by Superintendent H. Norman Schwarzkopf, of New Jersey police, for the minister to go to Hopewell for questioning. "No lawyer," he said, "would advise him to go and no sane person would expect him to go."

Hughes added that vestrymen had advised him not to go. Admiral Burroughs is one of the vestrymen in the church.

Dean Peacock, who asserts his participation in the Curtis-faked "negotiations" was with full belief in their authenticity, has advised New Jersey authorities he is willing to answer all questions put to him here.

Meanwhile police authorities pressed their far-reaching investigation into every phase of the case and Director of Public Safety Charles B. Rorland announced that Curtis arrived in New York at 10 o'clock the morning of April 2, the day that "Jafse" tossed a $50,000 ransom payment over a Bronx cemetery wall to a supposed kidnaper. Curtis was in New York for the next four days, he said, but he declined to say what significance, if any, police attached to the finding.

Police officials of New Jersey today said there was nothing which would in any way link Curtis with the actual kidnaping or collection of the ransom money.

"We have not yet received further investigation here, but it was learned that Norfolk officials are proceeding into several new fields and are conducting a search for two unnamed run runners."

Dean Dobson-Peacock, it was learned, has given detailed information to agents of the federal department of justice relative to his hurried trip to New York to see two unidentified gangsters who he, the dean said, made him an offer to return the kidnaped child for $500 cash and $50,000 ransom. The minister would not discuss the matter, contending that the information must come from federal authorities.

Dean Peacock has informed local officials he will be glad to answer their questions about his part in the "negotiations," confessed by Curtis to his entirety.

ALL SERVICE AGENCIES HAVE ONE TELEPHONE

Completion of another detail in the plan of co-ordinating all relief and social service activities in Atlanta for swift and effective service was accomplished Thursday with installation of a central telephone switchboard serving the Community Chest, Unemployment Relief Headquarters, Social Service Index, Social Welfare Council and Council of Social Agencies.

The telephone number is Main 3215. Besides the listing under that number of each of the organization which it serves, the exchange will be recorded also as that of the "Social Service Center."

McLEAN OUSTER SUITSTUDIED BY JUDGE

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP)—A quick and tame conclusion to trial of the suit seeking the ouster of Edward B. McLean as co-trustee of the millions left by his father today left a judge deliberating his verdict.

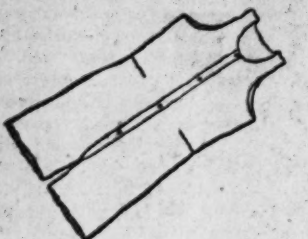

Justice Jennings Bailey in the District of Columbia supreme court took the case under advisement after plainly indicating there was doubt in his mind as to whether McLean should be removed.

McLean is in Europe and has been absent from Washington most of the past year.

Justice Bailey commented, however, that apparently the late John R. McLean wished his son, Edward, to have a controlling voice in administration of the estate.

Summing up, he said the circumstances would make a "court slow to remove him."

THE COTTON PLANT

By HENRY W. GRADY

What a royal plant it is! The world waits in attendance on its growth. The shower that falls whispering on its leaves is heard around the earth. The sun that shines on it is tempered by the prayers of all people. The frost that chills it and the dew that descends from the stars is noted, and the trespass of a little worm on its green leaf is more to England than the advance of the Russian army on her Asian outposts.

It is gold from the instant it puts forth its tiny shoot. Its fiber is current in every bank, and when loosing its fleece to the sun, it floats a banner that glorifies the field of the humble farmer: that man is marshalled under a flag that will compel the allegiance of the world, and wring tribute from every nation on earth. It is the heritage that God gave to this people forever as their own when He arched our skies, established our mountains, girt us about with the ocean, loosed the breezes, tempered the sunshine and measured the rain.

Ours and our children's forever! As princely a talent as ever came from His hand to mortal stewardship.

No week can be of greater significance to us of the Southland.

To all whose interests are allied so closely to this effort, we wish the utmost success in promoting a larger and more widespread use of one of the great products of the South.

Puckett, nightwatchman for a group of stores in the vicinity, charged in, captured Will Robinson, a negro of 700 Ella street, and wounded one of two who fled. Blood stains for several blocks indicated one of the robbers had been seriously wounded. Robinson gave the names of both escapes and hospitals were watched for the injured marauder.

PRESIDENT PRAISES NEGROES' PROGRESS

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP)—Through Secretary Wilbur, President Hoover last night sent to the annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People a message of high praise for the negro's progress.

"An amazing story of courage and enterprise in which colored people take a proper pride, and which their neighbors of other races view with satisfaction and admiration," was the way the chief executive described the gains in education, wealth and participation in agriculture, industry and civic life since the Civil War.

Wilbur urged upon the conference a warning that negro children's health is endangered by the migration to northern cities, because the racial requirement of sunshine causes them to suffer increasingly from tuberculosis and rickets.

British Efforts Fail To Cut League Budget

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 19.—(AP)—Efforts of the British government to induce the League of Nations council to whet an economy knife for the League's institutions got a cold reception.

Spokesmen of the international labor office and the World Court replied that the council was without jurisdiction to lop off expenditures, as the League assembly was the only competent financial authority.

Stefan Oesaki, chairman of the assembly's budget control commission, said the assembly itself had blocked the commission's economy proposals and that the British government had a leading part in this blocking.

Captain R. A. Eden, British under-secretary for foreign affairs, urged that a special committee be appointed to study the possibilities of economies and report to the next assembly. The discussion was left to be resumed tomorrow.

KIDNAPING STORY ALL IMAGINATION, "VICTIM" ADMITS

SCRANTON, Pa., May 19.—(AP)—A homesick young man who ran away last September after financial reverses admitted to police today that a fantastic kidnaping story with which he hoped to disguise his movements was purely imaginative.

J. Drew Fague, 31-year-old justice of the peace and former democratic nominee for congress, confessed that he wrote the ransom demands his wife recently received and that he applied the adhesive tape which bound his mouth and hands which he was found lying beside a highway yesterday.

He related, after hours of questioning by detectives, that he left his home near Williamsport last September 17 intending never to return. He made his way to New Orleans, working en route, shipped aboard a fruit boat to Colombia, and returned to Boston last month.

The desire to see his wife and his home again became over-powering. He returned to Pennsylvania and early this month sent Mrs. Fague "ransom letters" from Reading, Bloomsburg and Plymouth. Tuesday he decided to go home, he said, and taped himself up to give credence to his story of having been kidnaped. Authorities said no charges would be made against him.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

For 30 years I have been married to a man 15 years my senior. He is now in his 71st year. He has been a congenial husband, a kind father, an active church worker. With the practice of strict economy and self-sacrifice we have accumulated something. Nine months ago without rhyme or reason my husband changed completely. He seems to feel that he must get his fill of worldly pleasure without regard to his family, his church or his honor. He makes frequent trips to the city to visit a young woman and has in addition begun to drink. I suppose this is an effort to drown his shame at his disgraceful conduct. It is such a source of humiliation to the children that they no longer enjoy being at home. I feel my whole life's effort is going to ruin. What, oh! what, can I do!

ANSWER:

Surely no one can read this letter without responding in his thought to that sentence spoken by the old Jewish prophet, Jeremiah, "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked: who can know it?" Not the wife of the man who has been a companion for 30 years, not the church in which the man has sat and prayed, not the community in which the man has lived and worked and loved and raised a family and grown old. It is unspeakably tragic, and, but for the wife's humiliation and that of the children, it is unspeakably ridiculous for an old man, past three score years and ten, with one foot presumably in the grave, to be embarking on a reckless course of philandering and dissipation. In the very nature of the case it must be a course of short duration. His strength won't hold out for his ambition does. Nor will the girl's interest in him endure beyond the day of the generous expenditure of money.

My advice to you is to take steps to guard the joint "accumulation" of the years, even if it takes legal steps to accomplish it. A lawyer tells me that the courts are inclined to be very sympathetic toward a wife placed in your position.

If the man is not actually "non compos mentis," he gives strong evidence that he is. As for the mental anguish he causes you, there is nothing you can do but exercise patience until the fire has burned itself out in the "stump of the pine tree."

Surely your children will not desert you when you need them most however shamed and disgraced they may feel. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Sudden Love
By ELIZABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS:

Esme Sully spends her forlorn young existence between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. Mrs. Sully loves her three children blindly, but is unable to help them spiritually or physically. Cynthia, the oldest, has had a tragedy in her life. Lew, a year older than Esme, has had little from life. Esme can barely remember the days before her father's death when they had had a cheerful home. Jimmy Conscience forces Lew to introduce him to Esme. Lew wants Esme to make trouble unless she keeps away from Jimmy. She is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him a snob and a snob. Lew gets in a jam and asks Esme to get him out of it. She meets Arthur Twining at the home of a former employer. NOW GO ON

INSTALLMENT V.

He led her to a chair near a window. He asked her if she felt a draft. Other people knew him and tried to talk to him, but he stood faithfully beside Esme. He was no better at social conversation than she was. With an obvious effort he would think of a question to ask her, and she would answer fervently. "O, yes, I do!" or "O, no, I don't!" She was doing her best, but she was far from satisfied with her performance. She had seen none of the plays he mentioned, read none of the books; she seldom looked at a newspaper. Whenever he spoke she would glance up, with her radiant face softly rounded, softly flushed, then, having answered, she would bend her ruffled head, her fragile fingers playing with the strong of green beads about her neck.

"He must like me!" she thought. "I'm sure he came back just on my account. Would he lend me $50?"

She asked him if he were an artist, but he answered, "God, no!" in a startled tone. His solid, unsmiling presence gave her a sense of warm comfort. She felt a sort of affectionate gratitude toward him. She wished very much that she could find something witty and charming to say. Some one came with a tray of cocktails, and she took one and swallowed it in two gulps. Some one else came with another tray, and she was about to accept again when Twining said, in a noncommittal tone:

"That stuff won't do you any good."

She glanced at him, startled. "Well, I won't take it, then," she said, and smiled away the tray bearer. And then she saw in his blank blue eyes a look that astonished and delighted her, a look of indulgent tenderness that transformed his impassive face.

"He does like me!" she thought. "And he's a gentleman. I wouldn't mind asking him."

It was a difficult subject to broach, though. She was silent, her head bent for a long time before she spoke. "Mr. Twining," she said, "I hope you won't think it's horrible. But I'm very much worried about something and I'd like to ask your advice."

He bent lower, hands clasped behind his back, and she could see in his face only a kindly concern. "I don't exactly know what to do," she went on, her lips trembling. "I've got a job, in an office, so I could pay it back, a little every week. I was going to ask Mrs. Morelli, only she's so busy."

"A financial difficulty?" murmured Twining, close to her ear. It seemed to her unendurable to ask a stranger to lend her money, at their first meeting. She tried to recall the various expedients she had heard discussed in her own family.

"I thought," she said, "if I could find some one to sign a note—"

"A large amount?" he asked. She was not sure whether $50 was in other eyes a large sum or a small one, but she decided upon the former.

"Yes," he said. "I've got to go where my Esme goes. . . . Where are we going, dear?"

"Look here," said Twining, close to her ear. "Do you mind very much if we take him along? He lives with you, you know. And I'm afraid to leave him here."

"Yes, do!" she cried, earnestly. Continued Tomorrow.

urgent matter, it seems to me we could dispense with the note. If you don't object, I think I can take up that much cash over at my place. Look here! Suppose we take a taxi and pop over there now?"

Esme thought of Jimmy. She would be late in meeting him, and he was always unpleasant about waiting. Well, let him be! If she could help Lew. . . . She looked up at Twining. "It's God," such a wonderful thing for you to do," she said, unsteadily. "You don't even know me."

"O, that . . ." said Twining, embarrassed. "I mean, any one could see. . . ."

She wanted very much to know what any one could see, but at that moment there was a sort of eddy near the door. Helen Morelli pushed her way through her guests, calling out:

"Micky! You devil! Why didn't you come before?"

"I only came now—by mistake," answered a man's voice from the doorway. "I forgot your damn party. Just stopped in to get a drink."

There was a gust of laughter at this candor. "O, you're priceless, Micky!" a woman cried.

"No, I'm not," said the stranger. "I can be bought very reasonably."

"My God," murmured Twining. Esme looked up to see an expression of disgust and pain on his face. Then as she turned again to the doorway the group there had separated a little, and she saw the newcomer. He was a lean young fellow, with a dark, bitter face. He was arrogant, he was superb in evening dress, white tie, a silk hat at the back of his head. He was drunk, too, Esme could not be mistaken about that.

As she looked at him, he saw her. "O, Allah!" he cried. "Who's this?"

"Come on!" said Twining, and tried to hurry her out of the door. But the other blocked the way.

"You're not going to take her away, Twining!" he shouted. "When I've been looking for her along the endless, empty corridors of life. . . . O God! She's a little Raphael Madonna—in silk stockings."

"Pull yourself together, man!" said Twining severely. He still held Esme by the arm, in a desperate, painful tight, and now the newcomer caught her other arm.

"Don't go away!" he cried. "Please. What's your name, dear?"

Helen Morelli was standing by laughing; all the others thought he was comic, amusing. But not Esme. Esme saw pain and confusion in his eyes, and an intolerable compassion sprang up in her heart.

"My name's Esme Sully," she said, and smiled at him and tried, in that wide smile, to show him that she was sorry and that she understood.

"Esme. . . ." he repeated. "O, caro nome. . . . Mine's Michael, dear. Michael Marriott, the well known young boulevardier of Paris, New York and Hell. . . . Will you please come now and dine with me, dear? I know I'm d-runk, but I'll be docile."

"You are awfully sorry, but I can't," she said. "Aren't you, aren't you?" he asked. "Aren't you, Esme?"

"Yes," she said gently. "She had forgotten Twining, forgotten every one else. It was as if she and this man were utterly alone together. And it seemed to her that she understood him as she had never in her life understood another human creature, as if she had some irrefragable claim upon him."

"Come in and have a drink, Micky!" said Helen. "Have many drinks. Then you'll feel better. They were all laughing at him. No one else understood."

"No," he said. "I've got to go where my Esme goes. . . . Where are we going, dear?"

"Look here," said Twining, close to her ear. "Do you mind very much if we take him along? He lives with you, you know. And I'm afraid to leave him here."

"Yes, do!" she cried, earnestly. Continued Tomorrow.

Conference Track Stars Will Clash Here Today

CRACKERS ASK WAIVERS ON SUNDAY

DIXIE TRACKMEN WILL VIE TODAY AT GRANT FIELD

New Records Seen as Stars of Conference
Open Meet.

By Jack Troy.

Dixie's Who's Who in track and field came swinging into Atlanta, accompanied by a host of new records, yesterday for the Southern conference championship today and tomorrow. Sixteen teams are here.

The preliminaries begin at 2:30 this afternoon at historic Grant field and spectators will be admitted free. There will be an admission charge for the finals tomorrow.

All leading conference track and field men save Jack Burnett, wing-footed sprint star of Ole Miss, are expected to crack down on all records. Burnett and 10 Ole Miss trackmen have entered the mid-south Olympic trials at Memphis Saturday.

The preliminaries today promise some of the keenest competition in recent conference track history. Results of dual meets this spring show several of the existing records to be in a precarious position.

HEAVY TRACK.

A heavy track, soaked by steady rains, threatens to slow down the sprinters and handicap the field men and minimize the prospect of whole-sale record-breaking, but there will be no lessening of the spirit and fire of competition. There may be a faster track Saturday and the records will be in line.

If results in dual meets mean anything, Tulane's entry, defending champions, is in a tough spot. For North Carolina, Auburn, Duke and Louisiana State University are front-runners in the championship reckoning. The important thing today is the number of men each team can qualify. There will be preliminaries in the sprints, hurdle quarter and half mile, broad jump, discus throw and javelin throw. Teams that are stronger in the events in which there are no preliminaries will be in a better position in the finals according to the number of men they can squeeze through the prelims.

A RESEARCH.

Dillon Graham, of the Associated Press, has been making exhaustive search into the results of dual meets this year and finds that North Carolina, Duke, Georgia, L. S. U., Auburn and Tulane should finish among the leaders.

Don Zimmerman, football star, a pole vaulter and broad jumper; Calvert McCollough, hurdler; Francis Payne and Vernon Haynes, in the field events, are here to press Tulane's claim to superiority, in addition to several other good performers.

With Charley Farmer in the sprints, Maryland in the quarter-mile, Legore in the javelin throw and Brown and Mullis in the weight events, North Carolina, indoor champion, is a formidable contender.

AUBURN'S SOPHS.

Auburn figures on a trio of sensational sophomores—Richey, a hurdler and high jumper, and Kimbrell and Dupree, sprinters—to lead the way. The Tigers also have Beard, a discus thrower; Ross and McQueen, distance runners; Craighead, a quarter-mile runner; Stewart, high jump record holder.

From Duke has come Brownlee, low-hurdle record holder; Bradsher, half-mile; Fulmer, quarter-mile; and broad jumper, and Lewis, distance runner, and a crack relay quartet.

An outstanding athlete from sunny Florida is Joe H. Hamm, the decorated star, who is almost a one-man track team, accompanied by a fast relay team and several sprinters and weight men.

LAUCK LOST.

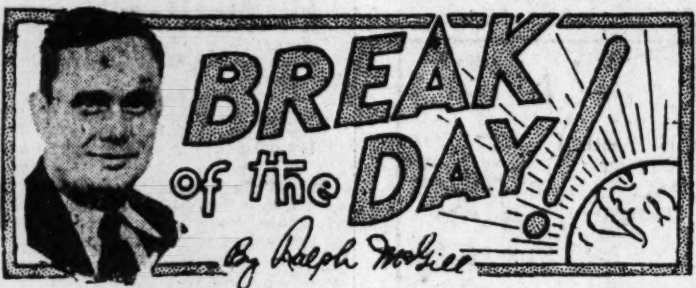

Virginia was in the front ranks of the challengers prior to the loss of Lauck, who won the mile race last year. Hunston Cary, conference 880 indoor champion, and Howard Holden, star two-miler, are with the Cavaliers. Georgia and Alabama, strong in the sprints and field events, are to be seriously reckoned with. Batchelor, in the field events, and Owens, a sprinter, are outstanding for three performers in dual meets this season. They are Zimmerman, Tulane; Reigels, Alabama; and Gordy, L. S. U. This record is in a very hot spot indeed.

Stewart, Auburn, is expected to better his own mark in the high jump. The record is 6 feet 2 3/4 inches. If Stewart doesn't there is a chance that either Ritchie, a teammate, or David, Georgia's great jumper, will.

BATCHELOR GOOD.

The discus record, which is held by Lani, V. P. L., at 136 feet 6 1/4 inches, is being eyed by Beard, Auburn, and Batchelor, Georgia. Batchelor and Legore, N. C., are considered good bets in the javelin throw, which good bets in the javelin throw, which

All this lively baseball business in the Southern association is very embarrassing indeed. Because Charley Carr, maker of the baseball used in the Southern league, asserts that he will gladly make the ball less lively and do the owners want it 10 per cent "deader" or 20 per cent? Or some other percentage? Charley Carr's frankness is alarming. It is something new in the statements issued from time to time by the manufacturers of baseballs. They have been very solemn about it, declaring that there has been no change in the baseball. Of course, the quality of yarn may be improved. And the Congo may be sending out a better brand of rubber for Babe Ruth's bat to whack—but a livelier by intent? No, sir.

And of course most everyone knew the baseball was livelier than ever before. Charley Carr was pretty frank about it all along. He makes a good baseball. But he makes them to order. I recall talking with Charley Carr five years ago. I asked him if he wasn't making a baseball which was much livelier than the balls previously in use.

"Well, I'll tell you," said Carr. "I make the ball the owners ask for."

And no more would he say. But he had admitted, of course, that the owners had ordered a baseball which had been given a rabbit blood transfusion.

And now that the league president has asked for a less lively ball—the first admission from any league president that the ball was lively—Charley Carr breaks down his barriers of silence.

The astounding thing is that he can regulate it, make the ball as lively or as dead as desired.

This, of course, settles an argument. It was never greatly in doubt. The lively ball was not so bad per se. But when combined with the poor pitching which the Southern association is getting this year it becomes a very terrible combination, one which the fans, that dying race, are viewing with increasing disregard.

BLACK SOX RESPONSIBLE.

When the Black Sox of 1919 cast a dark shadow over the game there was a very real panic in the offices of the baseball owners. They were very acutely afraid that the fans would turn away from the game and leave the stands deserted. The gambling and sell-outs had destroyed much of the public confidence.

The magnates were so panic-stricken that they cast about for something with which to boom the game and keep the World Series the big show that it was. So great was their panic that they put Judge Kennesaw M. Landis in power with supreme authority over the game and its players.

This has been a very great pain to some of the owners. Because the judge has kept them all more or less honest. The magnates found they could not juggle players as they wished and some of their deals outside baseball were given the very heavy frown.

Judge Landis was not enough to bring the game back. But there happened to be a big, powerful, slender-ankled pitcher who had been sold by the Red Sox to the Yankees. And he was such a good hitter he was attracting attention. So they made him into an outfielder.

His name was Babe Ruth and he was hitting quite a few home runs. In fact, he had about destroyed the practice of tossing out money to the home run hitters.

The fans were showing such enthusiasm that the magnates had an idea. So far as the records show they haven't had one since. But they had one then.

It wasn't very long until Babe Ruth and some other hitters began to hit the ball out of any lot they were playing in. The National League baseball seemed to be similarly afflicted. Hitters in that league began to hit home runs.

The fans began to come back to the game. The benches were black with people all cheering home runs hit by Babe Ruth.

The players began to complain. The pitchers and infielders said something had happened to the ball. It came through the infield at a terrific clip. But the owners and the manufacturers scoffed at the idea. It was merely that the players had quit trying to place hit and were cow-tailing the bat, as the boys say.

And so it went. The ball got livelier. The pitchers were stripped of the spit ball, the emery ball and all the deliveries which made hitting difficult.

But not until yesterday when Charley Carr, an old ball player, and a good one, admitted that the makers of baseball could regulate them as they chose, has it been acknowledged that the baseball had been tampered with.

CARR WAS GREAT HITTER.

Charley Carr was a great hitter himself. Someone suggested that Charley Carr delighted in making a lively ball just so he could let his imagination run riot with what he could have done with it.

There is no doubt about the ball being too lively. It is utterly ridiculous to imagine that a small player, weight 130 or 145 pounds, would have the power to drive a sensible, normal baseball 350 feet. And yet they do it daily.

The baseball, with its high-grade yarn wound tight about an enlarged core of rubber and cork, will go sailing, sailing over the bounding main.

THAT CERTAIN FOURSOME.

There is a certain foursome in town which won't permit any one of the members to wear long pants. It's too easy to have a hole in one of the pockets. And they are quite valuable when the owner of the long pants has shot one into the deep, deep rough.

SHOW DELAYED.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., May 19.—The second annual University of Florida horse show, sponsored by the reserve officers' training corps, was postponed until tomorrow as heavy showers interrupted the program today after the third event.

CAVALRY DRILL TODAY TO OPEN '32 HORSE SHOW

Leading Stables From All Parts of Country Entered in Event Here.

The stage is set at Piedmont park for the annual spring horse show—the fourth to be staged by the Atlanta Horse Show Association—today. Promptly at 1 o'clock this afternoon Colonel Fitzhugh Lee, executive manager, will give the signal to start. Then the trumpet will summon the first event into the ring. That opening event will be a spectacular drill by the sixth United States cavalry, executed with the speed and daring for which cavalrymen are famous.

Sixteen classes are scheduled for this afternoon and as many for Saturday. The events will be varied and colorful, including walk-trot and gaited classes, children's horsemanship, hunting, jumping and polo classes.

SADDLE CLASS.

Veteran sportsmen are holding their breath over the contest that looms in the main saddle classes. Ten leading southern exhibitors from Nashville, Chattanooga, Charlotte, High Point, Macon and Sea Island have entered Kentucky thoroughbreds that constitute a powerful challenge in any show ring.

Every civilian horseman in Atlanta with an entry in the stake and championship classes freely admits that the competition afforded by the visiting "civilian" stables puts them on their mettle. It was difficult enough last year for the judge to pick the winners in the major classes, so fine was the horsemanship and so superior the horsemanship exhibited.

But last year's contest was nothing compared to the task that faces Hon. Henry S. Claywood, now Senator Claywood comes from his native North Carolina, to judge the saddle classes—and with such entries as will pass before his stand, he will need the expert judgment that has made him one of the greatest authorities on horsemanship in the Blue Grass region.

THREE CHATTANOOGANS.

Chattanooga will be represented by three noted figures in the horse show world—Z. Carter, E. L. Kirtland and Mrs. Robert Purvis. A right royal welcome when she enters the ring. They remember her as the former Miss Mary Allgood Jones, one of the most brilliant young horsewomen Atlanta ever knew.

Nashville, Tenn., will have a particular interest in Mountain Betsy and Shore Acres, two fine saddle horses from the stables of Maurice Weinberger.

Charlotte, N. C., will be rooting for Firecracker Dare, Turk and Whitehall Chief, three superb horses entered by their fellow townsman, R. H. Macon, Ga., is banking on Flying Cloud, a noble five-gaited gelding owned by Hugh A. Burke.

So far as Georgia is represented by three entries from Jay Gould Day of Sea Island. They are thoroughbreds of the first order, and one of them, Playboy, will compete in the stake and championship classes against a mighty field.

T. W. Fletcher, of East Point, a newcomer to this section is backing the show in a big way with three entries that challenge all contenders.

LOCAL ENTRIES.

Among veteran sportsmen who will meet the visitors with notable saddle entries are John K. Ottley, Holland R. Judkins, John Ogden, Hugh Richardson, Robert E. Maddox, DeWitt King and a host of others.

Fort Oglethorpe, Fort Benning and Fort McPherson will be represented by picked teams that are seasoned show ring performers in hunting, jumping and polo classes.

If competition makes a good horse show—and it does—then it is likely Atlanta's best ring event. Any horse that wins a stake or captures a championship must be more than good—he must be great.

The horse show is being sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls school under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Eugene Harrington, and a generous percentage of the proceeds will go toward the education of Georgia's mountaineer children.

The sale of tickets will be transferred to the show grounds at Piedmont park this morning. Box seats are $2 each. The full box, containing six seats, is $12 for one day or $20 for two days. Grandstand seats are $1 each with a special price of 50 cents for children.

GAME HALTED.

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., May 19.—Rain today prevented a scheduled baseball game between the Parris Island Marines and the Yellow Jackets of Southwest Georgia Tech.

Jack Torrance Stars As Tiger Discus Man

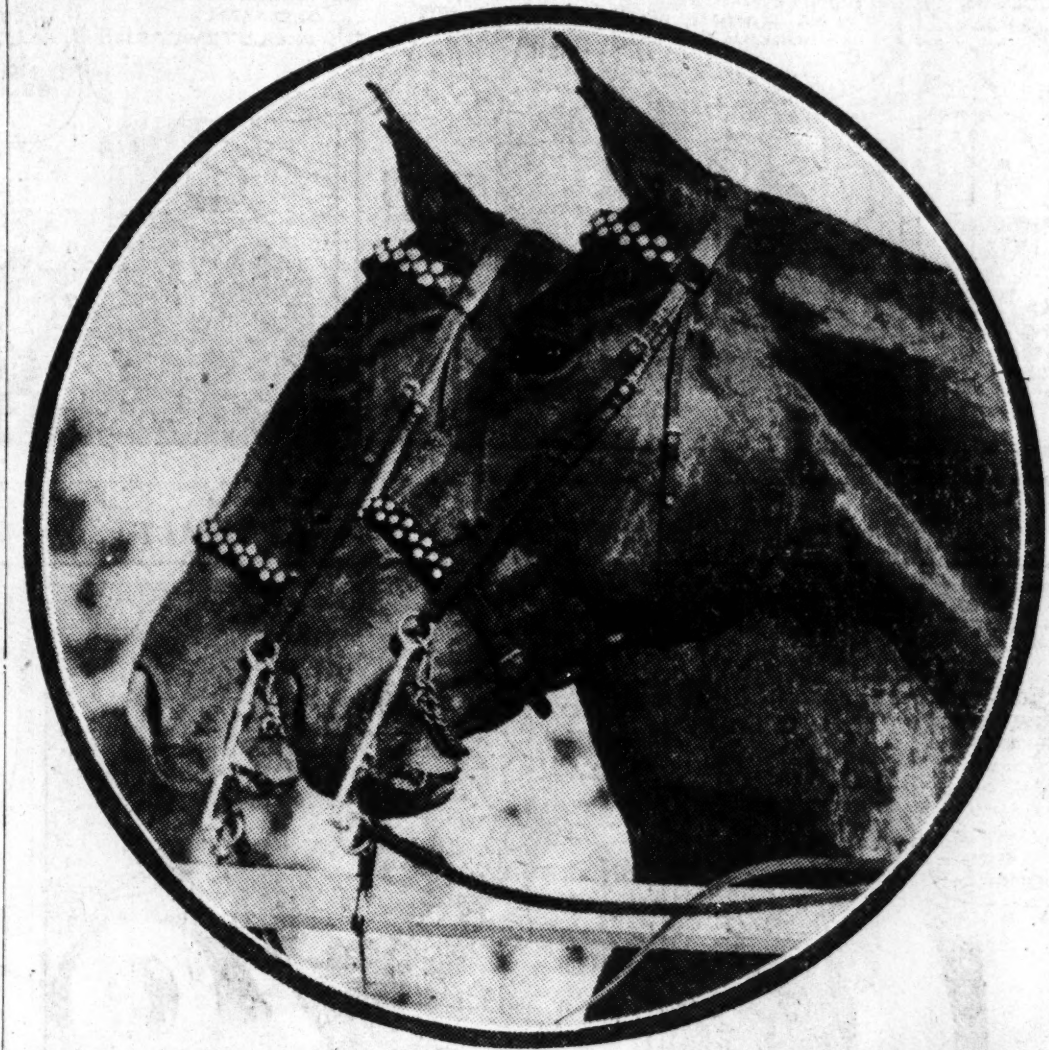

By Jimmy Jones.

The L. S. U. Tigers, coached by Bernie Moore and championed by Captain "Biff" Jones, are being roundly favored to accomplish big things in the conference meet getting under way today at Grant field.

Among the most colorful performers brought here by Moore is big Torrance, never had a discuss in his hand until last spring. Moore has accomplished wonders with him.

Biff Jones also is considering developing Torrance into a right tackle on his football team next fall. He is an all-round athlete and will be remembered for the game he played at the Atlanta horse show today and tomorrow at Piedmont Park. Outstanding Kentucky thoroughbreds and leading civilian and military mounts will vie for honors.

Here are two beautiful bay mares, Champion Spirit of Spring, left, and Reserve Champion Ocean Wave, the property of John K. Ottley, Atlanta, to be shown in the pair class

SINGLES CHOICE IS CUP PROBLEM

Time Grows Short as Three-Way Fight Is Carried On.

NEW YORK, May 19.—With time growing short and the opposition fast becoming stiffer, this country's Davis cup selection committee still is in a quandary as to the best available singles combination.

The tennis tatters, at least, still are letting the boys make a three-way fight of it as they prepare for the important tie against Australia next week-end at Philadelphia. Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison and Frank S. Shields again have been nominated for singles duty, with Allison and John Van Ryn to carry on in doubles.

By their brilliant form against Mexico and Canada, Van Ryn and Allison have settled the doubles problem. They still do. But it has become increasingly difficult to choose between the singles aspirants. Vines hasn't yet displayed the form that rocketed him to the national title last year, and only Allison has played consistently well. Shields further complicated matters the other day by beating Van Ryn in an exhibition at Kansas City.

If the Australian team proves as powerful as advance notice would indicate, the selection committee might have to make up its mind suddenly down at Philadelphia. A defeat in singles on the opening day would necessitate a quick change in the Davis team, and the rain might let Vines play two singles matches and Allison and Shields one apiece.

In Jack Crawford, the Australians are said to have a really dangerous rival for any man on the United States team. He and Harry Hopman form the invaders' doubles combination. The Aussies already are on the ground and practicing hard.

STAR TURNS PRO.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., May 19.—(AP) Monke Debardeleben, star University of Alabama right-hander, has signed up for a trout with Decatur, of the Three Eye league. Debardeleben won six and lost one for Alabama this season.

OLD DUCK HUNTER.

"It's too bad it wasn't sleeting a little bit or snowing some," said Arthur Caswell, "Bart can't shoot unless the weather is that bad. He is an old duck hunter and give him duck hunting weather and he can't beat it."

Lewis, who was rated as the best doubles shot in the world a few years ago, and who still holds the grand American record of 192 for the doubles, told of his first shoot some 30 years ago at Kansas City. He was a young fellow then with hair that grew sort of long after the prevailing fashion in Moss Creek, Mo., from whence he hailed.

He said that as he walked to the pin he heard a gambler yell, "B100 on the long-haired freak from there!"

GO ON FOREVER.

This gave him such confidence that he won. And he didn't make that shot again for about 20 years. And when he walked in some of the old-timers yelled, "There's our old-time long-haired freak friend!" Which shows how the trap shooter stick together. No one ever saw a dead trap shooter. They seem to go on forever.

J. P. Pullin, the Georgia doubles champion, was in second place in the 100 targets with a splendid 98. Mark Arie, the seemingly inevitable Arie, was tied with him. Then came Earl Ezell, of Starr, S. C., the south's

SINGTON, M'KEE WILL JOIN CLUB IN LATEST MOVE

Officials Plan To Go in for Young Players
With Futures.

By Jimmy Jones.

Officials of the Atlanta baseball club, after a private session yesterday, asked waivers on St. Rosendhal, veteran Class A outfielder, it was learned by The Constitution last night.

The move, it is understood, was made for the purpose of giving an opportunity to a pair of young prospects, Duke McKee and Freddie Sington, from the Western Club, Columbus, Ga., club and at the same time to make room for a Class A catcher on the roster.

Sington, 368 to become third ranking batter in the Southeastern, while McKee batted .310.

The club has decided that it will go in stronger for young players with a future, hence the waivers on Rosendhal. If the latter is claimed, the Crackers will still have Red Barron, John Cummings and Roy Carlyle. Waivers were asked upon the latter not long ago and he was unclaimed.

McKee and Sington will be carried along in the club's development. Rosendhal at present is batting .351. McKee and Sington, outfielders, and Maxey, infielder, will return to Atlanta today.

Chuck Koon, business manager, yesterday verified the report that Larry Oliphant, young Northwestern first baseman, would be brought down for a trial when school is out on June 3. He is recommended by Bobby Jones.

Crackers Play Twin Bill Today.

Frustrated in the series opener yesterday by a heavy rainfall that left miniature mud puddles standing about the playing field, the Atlanta Crackers and Little Rock Travelers will make up for the idle afternoon with a double battle at Ponce de Leon park today, first game starting at 2:15 p.m.

Harry Strohm, who brought his team to town yesterday, announced last night that he would send Charley Barnabe and Tex Nugent, two of his best hitters, to the mound for the two games, while Red Barron plans to start Anny Messenger and "Lefty" Carothers.

It will be Carothers' first start on the home field since he was traded to the Crackers.

LIMPS ABOUT.

The day of rest yesterday came ideally for Barron, who was limping about on a sore ankle, which he turned while rounding third in the first inning of the second game with Memphis Wednesday last. He is expected to play today.

Barron, who played football at Tech under such a handicap as a broken jaw, was the star of last year's team, however, and declared his firm intention of being in his team's lineup.

Playing .500 for the week, the Crackers are eager to come out with a majority over the Travelers, who are just a game above them in the standings.

LOOKS BETTER.

Harry Strohm says his team is looking much better now after a slow getaway in the spring. He has much the same team as that of last year, which, if one recalls, also got a slow start but came up fast to take second place. There is no change in his infield that finds Strohm himself at third, Nicolai at short, Redfern at second and Irvy Griffin at first.

He has had some trouble with his outfield, however, and has been forced to do some jockeying around out there. Wally Shaner and Bruce Campbell, regulars of last year, are gone. The new Traveler line consists of French, Gerken and "Red" Barnes, former Cracker.

McAdams, Richard Wrestle Tonight

Jack McAdams and Young Richard, of Dallas, Texas, will headline a wrestling card at 8:30 o'clock tonight at Almond park. They will meet in the best of three falls in a two-hour limit match.

Pete Sauls, of Savannah, will wrestle Sun Almond, Atlanta, in the one-hour preliminary, and Ernest Harbin meets Pat Jones in the 30-minute opener.

A battle royal will precede the wrestling program.

Barons Secure Outfielder Klumpff

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 19.—(AP)—Billy West, president of the Birmingham baseball club, today announced the acquisition of Elmer Klumpff, outfielder who started the season with Little Rock.

Klumpff was signed yesterday as a free agent, West said, to take the place of Woodley Abernathy, who is out of the game with injuries.

Nurmi Marries

The wedding was secret. It was at the home of the bride in the presence of her parents and a few friends. The couple left for a honeymoon in the country.

Senators Halt Winning Streak of Yanks by Taking Twin Bill

JIM FOXX HITS HIS 11TH HOMER WITH 3 MEN ON

Lisenbee Blanks Athletics Rest of Way After Big First Frame.

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—The Washington Senators brought the Yankees' string of successes to an abrupt end today and they slugged and walked their way into a virtual tie with New York for the American league lead by winning both games of a double-header. The scores were 8 to 6 and 12 to 7. The first game went 10 innings.

The double triumph left the Yankees in first place by only a few percentage points.

The first game not only ended the Yankees' string of victories at nine games, but it stopped George Pipgras after 21 shutout innings and it was the first time in 10 starts that a Yankee pitcher failed to go the route. Pipgras went eight innings before he gave way to a pinch hitter in a rally which gave the Yankees their first tie. They knotted the count again in the ninth with the aid of an error and a forced-in run after Combs' misplay had given Washington a pair.

Carl Reynolds started Washington's tenth inning disturbance with a triple and scored after a pair of passes on a pinch single by Dave Harris. Then Walter Brown walked in with a run.

Babe Ruth, who failed to hit in six tries in the first game, started the second off with a flourish by hitting his eighth home run of the season with Larry on base in the first inning.

Sam West hit a homer to put the

The Big Barrage.

With no intention of jolting or mauling the feelings of any western American league clubs, the 1932 pennant is going to New York, Washington or Philadelphia. At least that is where to look.

The next 10 days will be the hot spot of the new season, with the loudest barrage of the year. For the Yankees, leading the league, must defend their citadel against the combined assaults of their two main rivals, the same being the Senators and the Athletics. This mix-up can play a big part in deciding the next World Series entry from the A. L. side. It so happens the Yankees came to this important test while traveling at top speed. They have a brilliant pitching staff now on edge, with their old power to back this up.

If the Yankees can plaster both Senators and Athletics through the greater part of the next 10 days they will be hard to stop later on. But in spite of their fast pace to date, the plating has yet to take place. No one can figure out this baseball stuff. The Senators, after mopping up with Yankees and Athletics—after opening up a healthy gap, suddenly bumped into the St. Louis Browns and dropped four in a row. There was a 200 to 1 shot that somebody overlooked.

When a ball club as strong as the Senators manage to drop four in a bunch to the Browns, you can usually look for a quick reversal.

The Mackmen have the Red Sox to pick on while Yankees and Senators are clawing away at each other. This should permit Mr. Mack to move a few yards closer to his main rivals, with Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw back where they belong.

When a combination as strong as Miss Wethered and Miss Leitch needs a 25-foot putt down the stretch to beat the Misses Hicks and Orcutt only 1 hole, the improvement in women's golf on this side of the big water hazard is beyond any further argument.

Sarazen Again Sets Sail.

Gene Sarazen is leaving tonight to make another bid for the British open championship, the only important golfing title that has eluded him.

And this year his chances are just about par. Not only is he hitting the ball extremely well, putting confidently, and feeling in the best of spirits, but the history of the British open certainly favors his outlook.

In great contrast to the American open, the British classic has almost invariably been won by a favorite. Since the war, no dark horses have broken into the charmed circle.

Arthur Havers managed to stem the tide of American victories by winning at Troon in 1923, but the young Briton had known important victories before and was at the time recognized as one of Britain's best.

Since Havers' win, Americans have never been headed in the overseas

WOMEN GOLFERS IN SEMI-FINALS AT CAPITAL CITY

Mrs. Prichard Plays Mrs. Keeler; Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Dugan Meet.

Semi-final rounds in the May match play tournament being sponsored by the Atlanta Women's Golf Association on the Capital City Country Club course, were suspended Thursday morning due to the heavy rain and wind and will be resumed at 9 o'clock this morning with the second flight scheduled to tee off first, followed by the first flight.

Two outstanding matches are on the program for the first flight when Mrs. H. L. Prichard, co-medalist with Mrs. Carlyle Fraser, meets Mrs. O. B. Keeler, the association president, and Mrs. Forrest Fowler plays Mrs. Roy Dugan.

Mrs. Prichard won her opening match on the 19th green from Mrs. J. C. Wright and was forced to rally on the last four holes after being three down to win Wednesday from Mrs. Grady Black, who played one of her best rounds.

Mrs. Keeler is one of the best match players in the tournament and will give Mrs. Prichard, a comparatively newcomer to the top ranks, plenty of opposition today.

Mrs. Fowler had one of her best rounds in recent weeks when she carried a medal of 87 Wednesday in winning from Mrs. Charlie Black Jr., who also had a good round.

It has been the most successful of Atlanta women's golf meet in recent months and drew a record entry of 49. Its success is due primarily to the efforts of the officers, Mrs. O. B. Keeler, president; Mrs. W. D. Doak, secretary-treasurer; Miss Mary

MAX SATISFIED WITH RESULTS AT THIS STAGE

Cuts Loose in Training To Test Wind, Timing and Judgment.

By Max Schmeling, Heavyweight Champion of the World.

(Copyright, 1932, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

KINGSTON, N. Y., May 19.—In the last few days I have been able to crowd in a good deal of real strenuous boxing. I purposely cut loose in several rounds just to see how much there was ahead of me in perfecting my wind, timing and judgment of distance. The results were entirely satisfactory to me. And I am the hardest person to satisfy, am my own critic.

I have mapped out a set campaign that will bring me into the ring against Jack Sharkey on June 21 in the very peak of conditions. However, it will not be possible for me to settle into this routine until Saturday.

There is the season side of this title-holding business to be considered. About every day there is some kind of an invitation for the champion to attend something or other. Often it's to help along the ballyhoo for some enterprise.

Most of these affairs are carefully avoided, but now and then something really deserving, or something you really are obliged to do, comes along. Then you have to break in on your training routine and make an appearance.

ALL RIGHT NOW.

That isn't so bad at this early stage of training, so far ahead of the fight, but later on all invitations will have to be declined. This week there were two important events wanted to attend, even though they came on successive nights. One was the meeting of the Ulster county organization of the American Legion, made up of nine posts, and held in Kingston, and the other was the sportsmen's dinner in New York city.

I felt complimented to be asked to the American Legion gathering. It shows the open-minded fairness of these ex-soldiers that they should have invited me, a German, to be their guest of honor.

You would be surprised if I told you how many times a day my manager, Joe Jacobs, has to turn down invitations for me to attend the opening of a hotel, be a guest at this dinner or that, appear here and there.

JOE IS BUSY.

Also, Joe is kept busy shunting off telephone calls from strangers, some of them from long distance points as far as a thousand miles away—strangers who want to talk to the champion personally—about nothing. Since I began training here the telephone and telephone lines have been kept busy. I do my share to keep them busy. Every day I send my mother a telegram, or telephone to her in Berlin, and this helps me in my training as much as anything else I do.

Bulldog Star

Here is Graham Batchelor, one of the stars of the University of Georgia track and field team. Batchelor is one of the outstanding men in Bulldog lineup and is counted on to win many points in the annual Southern conference track meet which starts today at Grant field. (Story on first sports page.)

Players Tee Off In Open Tourney

Play, To Be Held in Threesomes, Opens at 8:30 Today at East Lake.

By Roy White.

Atlanta's first annual open golf championship tournament, the formal opening of the major tourney season for the city, will be played today on the No. 2 East Lake Country Club course. The event is being sponsored by the Atlanta Golf Association, and will serve as a preliminary to the southeastern professional tournament scheduled for next week on the Idle Hour Country Club course at Macon, Ga.

There will be 36 holes of medal competition and the field will be divided into Class A and Class B groups after the end of the morning round of 18 holes. Any professional who fails to make the Class A group will be automatically eliminated from further competition.

Cash prizes will be given to the three professionals finishing low and to the low three amateurs in both the first and second classes.

The tournament is open to every golfer in the city, irrespective of his pro or amateur standing and late entries will be received up to 10 o'clock today at the first tee, and starting times will be arranged immediately after the entry is filed.

Play will be in threesomes and will start at 8:30 o'clock with Berrien Moore Jr., H. O. Davis and Bobby Chambers making up the first group of starters.

Winter rules will be in force, which permits the improving of a lie in the fairways, provided the ball is placed no nearer the green. Play will be from the back tees.

Pairings for those entries received up to 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon have been made, and others will be made as they are received.

Keith Conway, chairman of the tournament committee of the association; Paul Duke, East Lake representative, and Ernie Ball and George Sargent, East Lake professionals, will be in charge of the tournament.

In the event of a heavy rain today, the tournament will be postponed until Friday, June 3, and players are requested to communicate with officials at the East Lake Country Club at Dearborn 3135 for definite information.

Play in the afternoon round will start at 12:30 o'clock and the threesomes will tee off in the same order as in the morning at the regular five-minute intervals.

1,010 Golfers Entered In Open

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—The United States Golf Association today announced that 1,010 entries had been received for the 1932 open golf championships, which will be played at Fresh Meadows, Flushing, Long Island, June 23-24-25.

Billy Burke, winner last year in a marathon play-off with George Von Elm, was one of the last to enter, just getting in under the entry deadline.

The rush of last-minute entries has not yet allowed their division by districts and allotment of places for the 20 district qualifying rounds. These are being prepared and will be ready in a few days.

The 1932 entry list of 1,010 is 131 less than last year when 1,141 players competed in the qualifying tests.

MEDICAL ECONOMICS IS TOPIC OF DR. FORT

Atlanta Addresses Georgia Doctors in Convention at Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 19.—(P)—Macon is expected to be selected tomorrow morning as the place for next year's convention of the Medical Association of Georgia, which will conclude this year's convention at the Hotel De Soto.

The principal business scheduled for the final meeting of the association is the election of officers. Dr. Arthur M. Head, of Zebulon, president-elect, will take office as president, succeeding Dr. Arthur G. Fort, of Atlanta. Tomorrow's balloting will fill the office of the following, whose terms expire: Dr. Marion C. Pruitt, of Atlanta, first vice president; Dr. H. M. Tolleson, of Habersham, second vice president; Dr. Allen H. Bunch, of Atlanta, secretary and treasurer; Dr. John W. Simmons, of Brunswick, parliamentarian. Two delegates to the convention of the American Medical Association and two alternates and counselors for several districts will also be elected, as will a president-elect to take the place of Dr. Head.

Three hundred and forty-two doctors registered for the convention here. The annual banquet and dance was held tonight at the Hotel De Soto. The program today included the address of President Arthur G. Fort, who spoke on the "economic drift of modern medicine." Insurance to cover the cost of medical care will be the ultimate solution to the unsatisfactory economic conditions now prevailing in the field of medicine, in Dr. Fort's opinion.

Is There a Cure for Athlete's Foot?

"I Say There Is!" Says Lifeguard

WHEN that doughty lifeguard and famous star half-miler Bruce MacDowell read in the papers that Harvard's biologists, zoologists and physiologists were going to work in their new $2,000,000 laboratory to find "a cure for athlete's foot."

"There is a cure!" he declared. "I contracted athlete's foot myself. Heaven knows where I got it, but I think I caught it from a shower bath floor at some swimming pool. Believe me, I was pestered with it. I tried all sorts of remedies for it—everything anyone would suggest—but nothing did any good. I began to think it was incurable, and resolved to make the best of it."

"Well, a while ago I happened to read the label on a bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil, and I noticed that it said antiseptic—germicidal—penetrating oil. I thought to myself, 'That ought to be good for athlete's foot, because it is a germ.'"

"I used Emerald Oil only 3 weeks and I HAVE NO MORE ITCH."

"To think that I have been battling with these years and couldn't get any relief! But now I have found a cure, and Harvard's research can be devoted to unsolved problems. For I say Moore's Emerald Oil is a cure for athlete's foot."

One bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil is guaranteed to banish every trace of athlete's foot or money refunded. Jacob's Pharmacy and other first-class druggists the country over sell gallons of Emerald Oil all the time with that positive assurance of relief.

"I say that Moore's Emerald Oil is a cure for athlete's foot."—Bruce MacDowell, Knoxville Arms Apartment, Birmingham, Ala.

What the Market Did

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—Stocks were mainly firm today in the face of a weak bond market, but the small turnover made difficult a very accurate appraisal.

Tobacco shares continued and some utilities appeared to be still under the influence of yesterday's electric power production figures. Most industrial, however, closed with moderate volume. Volume was 673,500 shares, a little smaller than Wednesday's.

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—

The bond market continued its exploration into new territory today. All categories of listed bonds participated in the liquidating expedition. Weakness of United States government issues and railway loans had an unsettling effect on both the utilities and industrial. Trading volume was the largest in the past two weeks, sales totaling $2,758,000,000. The average for 1931 principal and interest payments declined 6-10 of a point.

There was no especially depressing news to account for today's downturn. Losses of from 1 to 3 or more points were common among the carriers.

Atchafalpa General was the heaviest traded of the rails. They closed with a net loss of 3-4 of a point.

Communications company loans, led by American Telephone, recovered some of their earlier declines. Most of the oils steadied.

Foreign obligations were relatively steady.

Silent Indian in U. S.

Pleads Zoroastrianism

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—Shri Mehdi Baba came from far away India today to kindle "American materialism" with the fires of Zoroastrianism.

He was in the midst of a seven-year campaign and could not explain his silence. He would first go to Hollywood and might enter the movies if that proved to be the best avenue of approach to the American mind.

Surrounded by a retinue of followers in Hindu dress, he stood on the deck of the incoming Bremen and looked profound while his aides spoke for him.

In a written statement entitled "My Message to America," he proclaimed himself "the final source of everything. This is the state of Christ-consciousness. If people call me Messiah, savior or redeemer it does not affect me."

TARZAN AND THE ANT MEN No. 101

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Copyright, 1932, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. Distributed by United Features Syndicate, Inc.

"I love you," breathed the princess. "I have no time to waste," said Tarzan. "Come!" "Can it be that you do not know who I am?" she demanded. "You are Janara, the daughter of the king," replied the ape-man. "And you DARE to spurn my love?" she cried.

"It is no question of love between us," replied Tarzan. "To me it is only a question of liberty and life." For a moment the woman stood silently, her dark eyes two blazing wells of fire. Then slowly her expression changed, her face softened, and she stretched one hand toward him.

"I will help you to escape Zuanthor!" she said. "Come, follow me!" She turned and moved softly across the atreptem. In the passage behind the panning Tarzan and Komodorofensal awaited the outcome of Tarzan's venture and distinctly heard the conversation.

"He loved you," said Komodorofensal. "Because he does NOT love the Princess Janara is no proof that he loves me," return Talaskar. "But he does—and you love him!" insisted the prince. Talaskar laughed and then suddenly sobered.

Ship Sends Message

Down Light Stream

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 19, (AP)—The dirigible Los Angeles, observing eye of the navy, "whispered" down a beam of light to the ground what she saw from the air as she cruised over this city tonight.

This new secretive system of communication—transmission of the voice over a beam of light—was experimented with by officers of the navy dirigible and engineers of the General Electric laboratories. The voice from the air were picked up by radio station WGY and broadcast over a national chain.

It is claimed to be virtually secretive as compared with radio, offering a means of reporting aerial observation to the ground without the danger of pickup by the enemy.

ROOSEVELT SEEN AS OREGON VICTOR

Murray's Retreat While on Speaking Tour, Cited in State Situation.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19.—(AP) Indorsement of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt for the democratic presidential nomination in the Oregon primary tomorrow was generally conceded tonight.

The New Yorker and Governor W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma, are seeking Oregon's 10 votes at the national convention in Washington.

Murray came to Oregon recently to campaign, but abruptly terminated his tour, expressing dissatisfaction with speaking arrangements as he rushed home to look after affairs in Oklahoma.

The name of Joseph Irwin France, of Maryland, former United States senator, is the only one on the republican ballot. President Herbert Hoover will be a write-in candidate for the state's 13 convention votes. The president did not file his candidacy and voters supporting him must write his name on the ballot. Campaigning for both was quiet.

Alfred E. Smith, 1928 democratic candidate for president, and Speaker John N. Garner are expected to get some write-in votes from democrats. In addition to expressing their presidential choice, the voters will elect delegates to the national convention. Republicans will name 13 from a field of 20 candidates and democrats will select 10 from 21 seeking election. All delegates are elected by a statewide vote.

Regardless of personal beliefs, the delegates of each party must by tradition support the candidates preferred by the people. At Chicago the delegates will vote as units for the winners of tomorrow's primaries until released by the candidates or hope of victory is gone.

Registration exceeded that of 1920 and the 1928, the democrats showing an increase and the republicans a decrease although maintaining their lead over the democrats.

Wets Seek One Man Dry Laws Reformed

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP) The prohibition research committee, a group formed from the Crusaders and the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, tonight announced a "nation-wide quest for a single person who has been reclaimed by prohibition."

The committee plans to tour the country, it will start out by bus line June 1 from New York and spend 10 weeks visiting the larger cities between there and Los Angeles.

In all cities visited, the announcement said, the police authorities, Salvation Army, Anti-Saloon League and other organizations will be asked to produce, if possible, the "object of the search."

Officers of the committee said "Miss Evangeline Booth, of the Salvation Army, declared she could produce 3,000 persons who had been reformed by prohibition. We called upon her to produce one and not even one was forthcoming."

Only one group of visitors, a delegation of women from Manchester, N. H., came upon him today at his Pine mountain retreat.

Governor Roosevelt evidently is pleased with events of the last 24 hours. He has received 22 delegates in Vermont, South Carolina and District of Columbia. During the past week, with the withdrawal of Owen D. Young as "dark horse" candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, and the addition of several states putting Governor Roosevelt in sight of a victory there has been evidence of confidence in the Roosevelt household.

Late in the afternoon the governor drove through the rain to Hill farm for a business talk with his manager. The governor has more than 100 head of cattle, mostly pure-bred. His experience in cattle raising, he hopes, will furnish an example to southern farmers and improve dairying and beef cattle industries in the south.

At 10 o'clock Governor Roosevelt will go to Atlanta to deliver the commencement address at Oglethorpe University. He also will receive an honorary degree of LL. D. The governor is due here in New York the end of next week. This will be his last trip here until after the Chicago democratic national convention.
